BELAGAVI

The Karnataka government on Wednesday introduced the Karnataka Hate Speech and Hate Crimes (Prevention) Bill, 2025, in the Assembly, prompting vocal resistance from BJP legislators. Home Minister G. Parameshwara presented the Bill, while Speaker U.T. Khader sought voice votes. BJP members shouted "nay," with MLA V. Sunil Kumar demanding a division of votes, but the Speaker permitted the Bill to be tabled.

The BJP's reaction signalled its intention either to oppose the Bill outright or push for its referral to a select committee.

Under the proposed law, delivering or circulating hate speech will be treated as a hate crime, carrying a minimum one-year jail term, extendable up to seven years, along with a ₹50,000 fine. Repeat offenders may face two to ten years of imprisonment and a fine of ₹1 lakh.

Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar later told reporters that preventing hate speech was part of the government's core agenda, stressing the need to uphold peace and law and order across the state.

Horatti corruption allegations spark debate in Council

BENGALURU

Allegations of corruption against Karnataka Legislative Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti surfaced during a question-and-answer session, with Congress member Nagaraj Yadav raising serious concerns. Yadav claimed Horatti was not fit to occupy the chairman's post. JDS legislator Bhojegowda highlighted Yadav's grave claims, including a circulating video accusing the chair of graft and deeming Horatti unfit for the role. He urged a house discussion to uphold the position's dignity. Congress's Hariprasad condemned such accusations against presiding officers, citing past instances. BJP's CT Ravi decried it as character assassination and mental harassment, noting alternatives like no-confidence motions exist.

Shah refutes 'vote chori' claims, Rahul challenges him to debate

NEW DELHI

During a heated discussion on electoral reforms in the Lok Sabha, Union Home Minister Amit Shah firmly rebutted allegations of "vote chori" raised by Congress leader Rahul Gandhi. Shah criticized the Opposition for questioning the integrity of the voter list and the Summary Revision (SIR) process, calling such claims double standards. He emphasized that SIR, conducted under the Election Commission, ensures clean electoral rolls and is not under government control.

Shah alleged that the first instance of "vote chori" took place immediately after Independence. "Post Independence, Sardar Patel was backed by 28 persons, Jawahar Lal Nehru by two persons; yet Nehru became PM, this was vote choir." He pointed out that the Congress often blames EVMs, electoral rolls, or the EC for losses instead of leadership issues.

Rahul Gandhi, intervening, challenged Shah to a debate on his press conferences, signaling a direct confrontation. Congress MPs, including KC Venugopal, contested Shah's claims regarding Sonia Gandhi, noting ongoing legal proceedings and emphasizing factual accuracy.

> We want to remove all illegal immigrants from this country. Opposition can boycott Parliament, but we will ensure that no illegal immigrant remains in the voter list. Opposition raised the issue of SIR to keep illegal immigrants in voter lists.
> —Amit Shah, Union Home Minister

Shah defended SIR, highlighting its role since 1952 in maintaining fair elections and removing ineligible voters, including deceased individuals and foreign nationals. He asserted that the Opposition's campaign against the process undermines democracy, and stressed that BJP's electoral successes reflect the elimination of corrupt practices.

Opposition MPs on Wednesday staged a walkout in the Lok Sabha amid Union Home Minister Amit Shah's reply to the discussion on electoral reforms in the House.

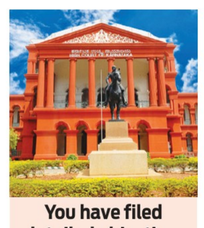
HC to hear menstrual leave challenge in January 2026

BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court announced it will hear in January 2026 a batch of petitions challenging the state government's November 20 notification mandating paid menstrual leave for women employees in all registered industrial establishments, citing the matter as one of "public importance." The notification requires permanent, contract, and outsourced female employees to be granted one day of menstrual leave per month.



You have filed detailed objection. We will do one thing. Advocate Prashanth (for petitioner) you go through it and file rejoinder if any. We have to hear arguments in favour and against, said HC

Earlier, Justice Jyoti M temporarily stayed the notification, but the order was quickly recalled after Advocate General Shashi Kiran Shetty argued it conflicted with Supreme Court directives. Shetty highlighted that the leave is in line with Articles 15(3) and 42 of the Constitution, promoting humane working conditions and maternity relief. He added that the government consulted stakeholders before issuing the notification and affirmed full implementation.

During the hearing the court was informed that the state government had filed its objections to the petition. The court asked if the notification applies to all sectors to which the Advocate General Shetty said that it did. The High Court allowed petitioners to file a rejoinder and will hear arguments from both sides after the winter vacation.

Speaking during the 150th anniversary discussion of Vande Mataram, Ramesh said parliamentary debates revealed "too little history in politics and too much politics in history."

He reiterated Congress arguments, highlighting that the current version of Vande Mataram was a collective decision of the Congress Working Committee, including leaders like Rajendra Prasad, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Mahatma Gandhi, Maulana Azad, Rabindranath Tagore, and Nehru.

SIT finds Dharmasthala mass burial claims fabricated

BENGALURU

The Special Investigation Team (SIT) submitted a preliminary report to the Beltangady court in Karnataka, stating that the alleged Dharmasthala mass burial case was fabricated through a conspiracy orchestrated by anti-Dharmasthala activists. The report cleared the Dharmasthala authorities of wrongdoing and named six accused: Chinnayya (A1), Mahesh Shetty Timrodi, Girish Mattannanavar, Jayanth, Vitthal Gowda, and Sujatha Bhatt.

Investigators revealed that A1 Chinnayya was coached, pressured, and paid to provide false statements, while a staged narrative of "mass burials" was created to target Dharmasthala. The accused allegedly procured a skull, staged evidence, and recorded coached statements, with conspiracy meetings held at Timrodi's residence. The SIT recovered video clips, bank transaction trails, electronic data, and witness statements supporting the findings.

The SIT has requested court permission to arrest five of the accused, with custodial interrogations planned to complete the investigation and file the final report.

Reacting to the SIT report, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said he had previously indicated in the Assembly that a conspiracy existed against Dharmasthala. He affirmed that the allegations were baseless, justice had prevailed, and the truth has come out. Shivakumar emphasized that such conspiracies could harm long-standing institutions.

CASE IN BRIEF

- Dharmasthala temple faced protests over murders, sexual violence, and political suppression since 1980s.
- SIT probed alleged Dharmasthala mass burials after July 2025 complaints surfaced.
- Complainant claimed coercion to bury women, minors, many showing sexual abuse.

Blood samples in murder cases mandatory: HC

The High Court has dismissed the appeal filed by the accused in the wife's murder case, upholding the sentence imposed by the trial court

BENGALURU

The High Court has directed the state Director Generals and Inspector Generals of Police (DGs, IGPs) and the Prosecution Department to issue necessary instructions to investigating officers regarding the mandatory collection of blood samples of deceased or injured persons in cases like murder allegations.

The bench of Justice R Devadas and Justice B Muralidhar Pai issued this instruction while hearing a criminal appeal filed by Bhimappa challenging the trial court's order sentencing him to life imprisonment for murdering his wife.

In addition, the bench has directed the trial courts hearing the case to mandatorily collect and submit blood group samples of those who died or were injured in criminal incidents along with evidence.

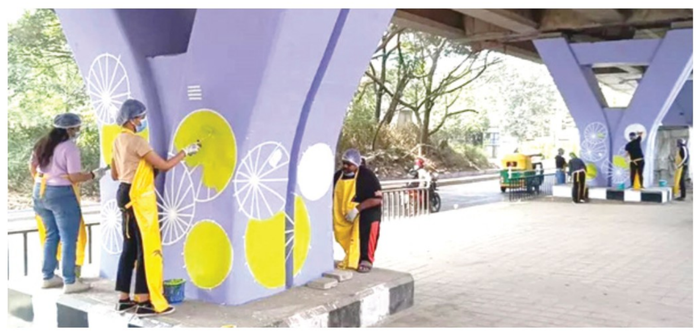
The bench also said that the investigating officers had seized blood-stained objects from the scene of the incident and blood-stained clothes from the deceased and the accused. However, they had erred in not collecting the blood group of the deceased.

The investigation report submitted by the investigating officers states that the blood group is 'O'. However, no evidence has been provided to confirm that the blood is that of the deceased. The purpose of collecting bloody soil, clothes and other items required for the chargesheet during the investigation is to add circumstantial evidence. This will allow the crime against the accused to be confirmed, it said. If the investigating officers fail to obtain the blood group report of the deceased or injured, the very purpose of collecting the bloody items will be defeated. We have come to know that the investigating agency often makes such mistakes. Therefore, the bench has directed that blood group reports should be submitted before the trial court in murder cases. The bench also directed that a copy of the order be forwarded to the DG and IG offices and the Director of Prosecution Department for necessary instructions regarding the order. It should also be forwarded to the Gadag District Legal Services Authority for appropriate compensation to the children of the deceased, the bench said in its order.



Volunteers clean and paint Agara flyover

Volunteers gave a facelift to 40 pillars across four sections, carrying out intensive cleaning, waste removal, and repainting in a calming lilac palette.

Five years after transforming the filthy stretch under Agara flyover near Silk Board, people returned with brooms and paint as garbage and dust had again crept back. Over 200 volunteers from KPMG Global Services (tax group), along with Bengaluru South City Corporation (Bommanahalli Division) officials and members of The Ugly Indians undertook a large-scale clean-up and restoration drive under Agara flyover on Sarjapur Road. The flyover, located at a crucial junction connecting HSR Layout and Koramangala with Outer Ring Road-Sarjapur tech zone corridor, fell into neglect during the past five years of Metro construction. The entire space beneath the flyover turned into a dumping ground for debris and was also misused as an open public toilet. The structure was earlier revamped in 2019 under then BBMP's Adopt-a-Flyover initiative to convert it into a public-friendly space. However, once Metro work began, the restored area gradually deteriorated, becoming dusty, unsafe, and chaotic, worsened by ongoing white-topping work around the junction.

As part of Greater Bengaluru Authority's CSR-backed initiative to rejuvenate spaces under flyovers, volunteers returned to revive the site, with BMRCL extending support by clearing construction debris and vacating stored materials, as most civil works in the stretch are close to completion.

The flyover has over 60 pillars, of which 20 remain within the active project zone. The volunteers said that the three-hour drive was their first civic action campaign and that the experience deepened their understanding of the effort required to maintain large public spaces.

The restored area is expected to provide a safe spot for pedestrians at the busy junction, which lacks clearly marked crossings, and for commuters boarding or alighting from buses.

English teacher accused of assaulting 11-year-old student

Days after a physical training teacher at a private school was arrested for allegedly assaulting a class VII student, an East Bengaluru parent accused her 11-year-old son's English teacher of assaulting him in class at a school in HRBR Layout. The boy, a student of class VI, allegedly suffered an internal injury in his ear and inside his mouth after the teacher slapped him twice in front of his classmates on December 5, his mother told police. The student's mother also filed a complaint against the school principal and a coordinator for allegedly not responding to her properly when she questioned them about the assault. The boy's mother first complained to the child welfare committee and then to cops. A senior officer said a case was registered at Ban-aswadi police station under Juvenile Justice Act and Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita Section 115 (voluntarily causing hurt). We issued a notice to the accused and action will be taken, the officer added. The boy's mother claimed the English teacher was targeting her son for the last two-three months after she questioned him about the delay in correcting the class test paper. She told police her son took a paper cutter to school for his arts and crafts class. After he finished writing his English class text, he started to work on his craft assignment. He injured himself with the cutter and called out 'Amma' loudly in pain during the English class.

The teacher questioned him for disturbing the class and tried to take the paper cutter from the student, but he refused, saying he had brought it from home and would take it back. The teacher slapped him twice and took him to the coordinator, the complaint said. Police said the boy was scolded and warned.

The teachers called his father and informed him that he had hurt other children with the paper cutter, and the boy was not allowed to go home after school hours, the student's mother said in her complaint. After returning home, the boy's mother took him to a nearby hospital where doctors told her that he was bleeding in the mouth due to a cut and an internal injury in his ear.

BENGALURU

Newly-elected Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) president Venkatesh Prasad met Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar on Wednesday, pledging to bring international cricket and the IPL back to the iconic M Chinnaswamy Stadium.

Prasad described the meeting as "extremely positive and fruitful," adding that the proposals will be discussed in the cabinet and assembly soon. RWAs flag legal confusion, faulty handovers and compliance gaps

Apartment association office-bearers highlighted confusion over legal frameworks, incomplete builder handovers, and financial transparency issues at a recent seminar

Confusion over legal framework, incomplete builder handovers, lack of financial transparency, and rising internal disputes dominated discussions at the city-level meeting of apartment association office-bearers. The RWA 360° Excellence Seminar was held to mark the 10th anniversary of the property inspection and Residential Welfare Association (RWA) advisory platform. Several RWAs highlighted that there is still no clear and uniform rulebook governing the RWA registration, operations, and dispute resolution. This lack of clarity leads to conflicting legal interpretations, delays in registration, and disagreements over voting rights, management of funds, and administrative authority.

A key concern was faulty or incomplete handovers by the property developers. The RWA office-bearers said that they are often asked to take charge of projects without receiving complete financial statements, statutory approvals, or detailed asset inventories. We inherit defects, unpaid vendor bills, and missing documents, which later become liabilities for the residents, the participants said.

Many RWAs admitted that they are struggling with GST provisions, filing income-tax, TDS compliance, and audit norms. Smaller associations said the lack of professional guidance exposes them to penalties and regulatory action. Rising disputes within apartment complexes were also discussed from conflicts over structural defects and maintenance quality to disagreements among residents over spending decisions and vendor contracts. Several RWAs said office-bearers are often unaware of proper escalation channels, resulting in prolonged conflicts and avoidable litigation.

Addressing the gathering, Justice N Santosh Hegde, former Supreme Court judge, said that in a society driven by self-interest and material pursuit, it was important to uphold compassion, honesty, and empathy. Greed never brings lasting happiness. A helping hand to a neighbour strengthens the very fabric of our community. The true measure of progress lies not in wealth but in humanity, he said. Karnataka RERA Chairman Rakesh Singh said regulatory reforms have strengthened homebuyers' rights by mandating transparency, timely possession, refunds, defect-free homes, and complete documentation. He advised the RWAs to form handover committees, conduct professional audits, and insist on full financial and legal documentation at the time of takeover to avoid future liabilities. "True excellence lies in thriving societies built on trust, where informed RWAs and compliant developers create lasting value for all, Singh said.

BENGALURU

Avalahalli police have arrested five accused, including a thief who robbed a house and four others who ambushed him. On the night of November 22, Isairaj broke into a house in Mandur, stole 90 grams of gold ornaments and Rs 1.75 lakh in cash and fled. Bringing World-Class Heart Care to Every Corner of India

BENGALURU

As India's ageing population continues to grow, heart specialists are warning that many seniors may be silently living with a life-threatening yet treatable heart condition, Aortic Stenosis (AS). Often mistaken for ageing, symptoms such as breathlessness, fatigue, chest tightness, or light-headedness are sometimes dismissed as slowing down with age. However, doctors caution that these could be early warning signs of a narrowing of the aortic valve, which restricts blood flow from the heart to the body. Dr Sanjay Mehrotra, Senior Consultant Cardiologist at Narayana Institute of Cardiac Sciences, Bangalore explains, many people live with symptoms of Aortic Stenosis for years, thinking it's simply due to age, until their heart function becomes severely compromised. Unlike certain heart diseases, Aortic Stenosis does not respond to long-term medication. Valve replacement is the only definitive treatment once the disease advances. The expansion of TAVI-based treatment across India marks a major step toward making world-class cardiac treatment accessible to elderly patients nationwide. For those previously deemed unfit for surgery due to age or frailty, this procedure provides a new chance at life with faster recovery, shorter hospital stays, and improved quality of life.

Doctors are also urging greater public awareness and routine heart check-ups for timely detection.

2 arrested for cheating by promising to solve sexual problems

BENGALURU

The Jnanabharathi police have arrested two accused, including a fake guruji, who had cheated a software employee by promising to solve his sexual problems. Vijay Chittodia and Manoj Singh, who hail from Gujarat, have been arrested.

The accused had cheated a software employee of Rs 48 lakh in stages, promising to solve his sexual problems. The person, who was not only cheated but also seriously ill, had filed a complaint with the Jnanabharathi police station.

The complainant, who was an engineer in a software company, got married in 2023.

The complainant was undergoing treatment at a hospital in Kengeri due to sexual problems. However, at the same time, the complainant saw a board outside a tent on the side of the road saying 'Quick Solution to Sexual Problems' and contacted him. When he complained, Vijay Guruji asked him to buy a medicine named Devraj Booti weighing one gram for Rs 1.60 lakh from an Ayurvedic medicine shop in Yeshwantpur and made it a condition that he should go alone to buy the medicine and that the medicine would be effective only if he paid in cash.

Accordingly, the complainant had purchased a medicine called Devaraj Booti and met Vijay Guruji. After this, the fake Guruji had taken money in the name of different medicines and oils. When he said that he did not have money to buy it, he had said that the treatment given till now was not effective. The complainant, alarmed by this, took out a loan and gave a total of Rs. 48 lakhs to Vijay Guruji. When there was no benefit, the fake Guruji started threatening him every day that he needed more treatment, otherwise his life would be in danger. In the meantime, when the complainant got his blood tested, it was found that his kidney was damaged. Therefore, the aggrieved person filed a complaint demanding action against Vijay Guruji, who had cheated him. The police, who registered a case and started investigation, have arrested both the accused who were in Telangana.

CONCERN FOR STRAY DOGS

Actress Horanadu upset with GBA's decision on dogs

BENGALURU

Stray dogs are being caught across the city and sent to temporary shelters. Some animal lovers have expressed their displeasure that this is a violation of the Supreme Court order and AWBI SOP. A media conference was held at the Bangalore Press Club regarding this.

Animal welfare activists and NGOs in the city have raised their voices against the 'grave misuse' of taxpayers' money. 184 dogs have been caught in the city without following proper procedures. The Greater Bengaluru Authority is implementing the Supreme Court order and AWBI SOP incorrectly, which could have major repercussions in the future, the media was told at a press conference.

Actress and founder of Prana Foundation, Samyuktha Horanadu, said, the Supreme Court order is completely inconsistent. What is worse is the way the Greater Bengaluru Authority is implementing the order. These temporary shelters are nothing but ABC centers. If healthy dogs are packed here, who will manage the ABC. The system is very corrupt. The situation has come to a point where the poor dogs are suffering. I am completely against this decision, it is inconsistent, she expressed her displeasure.

Manjari Chaitanya, founder of South Bangalore Cares, alleged, these dogs are being taken to rural areas where rabies cases are more common than in the city, and ABC is not being implemented properly there.

South Bengaluru Cares lawyer Satvik Putta said, as per the Supreme Court order, the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) should build permanent shelters with specific dimensions as stipulated in the AWBI SOP. The temporary shelters proposed by the authority are only ABC centers and are not part of this process.

Vikash Bafna, founder of Friends for Animals Trust, said, after meeting Chief Secretary Dr Shalini Rajneesh and Commissioner Vikas Suralkar, said that he will catch the dogs and send them to these temporary shelters. Please do not take hasty decisions. This may bring dishonor to the Supreme Court verdict. As studies and research show, ABC is the only humane and effective way. But it is not being implemented properly across the state.

Middlemen in offices will invite strict action: Ramalinga Reddy

Minister Ramalinga Reddy warned that strict action will be taken against officers if middlemen are found operating in government offices

BELAGAVI

Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy warned that if middlemen are found operating inside government offices, especially RTOs, strict disciplinary action will be taken directly against the concerned officers. Responding to a question by Congress MLC Umashree during the Legislative Council session, he said several measures have already been implemented to bring discipline and transparency in RTO offices. All applications and receipts received in the office must be processed strictly in the prescribed format by the concerned officials. Supervisors have been instructed to verify files weekly, and conduct monthly desk inspections, with reports submitted to higher authorities as per the circular issued by the Transport Commissioner.

The minister stated that no office should allow the presence of intermediaries under any circumstances. If any middlemen are detected, officers of that particular office will be held responsible and penalised according to rules. To discourage the public from approaching intermediaries, signboards have been installed in RTO premises advising citizens to directly contact officials for their work. Information boards also display Lokayukta office details, including address and helpline numbers, enabling citizens to lodge complaints easily.

Reddy further highlighted that since November 1, 2021, as many as 52 services of the Transport Department have been made available online to curb middlemen and promote hassle-free services. He stressed that these reforms aim to ensure transparency and smooth functioning in government offices, ultimately reducing corruption and inconvenience to the public.

Gold mangalsutra stolen from woman at bus stand

BAGALKOT

In a troubling incident at Ilkal bus stand in Bagalkote district, a woman's gold mangalsutra, weighing around 40 grams, was stolen while she was boarding a bus. Govt weighs higher subsidy for Basava Housing beneficiaries

BELAGAVI

The Karnataka government is considering a significant revision to the financial assistance offered under the Basava Housing Scheme, with plans to provide a minimum subsidy of ₹3–4 lakh to selected beneficiaries. Housing Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan informed the Legislative Council that frequent complaints have been raised about the current subsidy being insufficient for constructing homes, particularly in rural areas where the cost of raw materials has sharply increased.

Responding to a question from BJP member Pradeep Shettar, the minister said the government acknowledges the growing financial burden on beneficiaries and is actively reviewing proposals to enhance assistance across various housing schemes. He added that discussions have already been held with the Chief Minister, and the proposal to increase subsidies is likely to be considered during the upcoming state budget.

Khan further clarified that, except for centrally sponsored housing schemes, there is no pending subsidy release under state housing programmes. As of the end of October 2025, the government has disbursed ₹1324.26 crore to eligible beneficiaries under different housing schemes for the 2025–26 fiscal year.

The minister emphasised that the revised subsidy structure aims to ensure that beneficiaries can realistically complete house construction without financial strain. With rising construction costs affecting rural and economically weaker households the most, the government's proposed enhancement is expected to offer meaningful relief and strengthen the overall execution of state housing initiatives.

This renewed push comes at a time when the Basava Housing Scheme continues to be a key state initiative supporting affordable housing for disadvantaged sections across Karnataka.

Protecting human rights is every citizen's responsibility: Judge Harish

VIJAYAPURA

At the Vijayapura District Office auditorium, Principal District and Sessions Judge Harish E, who also heads the District Legal Services Authority, emphasised that safeguarding and upholding human rights is a shared responsibility of all citizens. Speaking at the World Human Rights Day event organised by the district administration, Zilla Panchayat, Legal Services Authority, Advocates' Association, and the Karnataka State Human Rights Commission, he urged people to remain vigilant to prevent any form of human rights violation. Human rights cover a broad spectrum—civil, social, political, cultural, and economic—and ensure equality, legal protection, freedom from exploitation, education, dignified living, and the right to choose one's profession. He stressed that citizens must perform their duties sincerely to preserve these rights.

Deputy Commissioner Dr. Anand K highlighted that every individual possesses inherent dignity and must act in ways that do not compromise the dignity of others. He explained that the National and State Human Rights Commissions were established under the 1993 Act to strengthen the protection and enforcement of human rights. The Constitution, crafted by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, enshrines fundamental rights, duties, and directive principles aimed at ensuring justice and equality. He encouraged students to actively spread awareness about human rights and uphold values of love, respect, equality, and brotherhood.

Minority hostels to get wardens and facilities upgrade: Minister Ahmed

BELAGAVI

Minority Welfare Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan announced that tenders have been floated to upgrade essential facilities—including beds, mattresses and other basic amenities—in hostels functioning under the Minority Welfare Department across Karnataka. Responding to a question raised by Congress member Balkees Banu during the Legislative Council session, he said the state currently operates 405 minority student hostels, some of which require urgent improvements.

He acknowledged that several hostels are facing staff shortages, a matter already brought to the government's notice. To address this, the department is reviewing the 2011 service and recruitment rules of the Directorate of Minorities. Once this revision is completed, the government will initiate the process to fill vacant posts, including hostel warden positions, he assured.

For now, to ensure smooth hostel functioning, student safety, and academic support, the department has temporarily assigned additional responsibilities to existing staff members to manage vacant warden roles. This arrangement, he noted, is only an interim solution until the revised staffing rules allow fresh recruitment.

Khan emphasised that the government is committed to strengthening minority hostels and ensuring that students receive safe accommodation and necessary infrastructure to pursue their education without hardship.

VHP and Bajrang Dal protest against cow slaughter law amendment

BELAGAVI

In Belagavi, activists of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP) and Bajrang Dal held a protest on Wednesday at Channamma Circle opposing the proposed amendment to the Karnataka Cow Slaughter Prohibition and Conservation Act. The protestors alleged that although the state cabinet had decided in January 2020 to amend Section 6(4) of the act, the government is now delaying its implementation.

They highlighted that despite strict provisions, incidents of overloading vehicles with more cattle than the prescribed limit and transporting them in cruel conditions continue in certain areas. While the 2021 law helped regulate some illegal activities, complete enforcement has not been achieved. According to protestors, in some regions, cattle are still being transported illegally due to financial incentives, demonstrating a gap in law enforcement.

The demonstration was attended by prominent VHP and Bajrang Dal leaders and activists, including Pramod Okkundmath, Swaroop Kalakundri, Anand Karalinganavar, and Nagesh Kambale, along with other office bearers and members.

The protestors demanded the full and effective implementation of the law to prevent cruelty to cattle and called for stricter monitoring of transportation practices. They urged the government to ensure that the amended provisions are enforced promptly, emphasizing that legal loopholes should not be exploited for profit. The protest drew attention to ongoing violations and stressed the need for coordinated efforts by authorities to protect cattle and uphold the law across Karnataka.

This demonstration reflects broader concerns among social and religious groups about animal welfare and the enforcement of state regulations related to cow protection.

Kharge announces steps to simplify rules for Mangaluru IT park

The K'taka govt is moving to simplify rules for establishing the proposed Mangaluru IT Park under the PPP model

BELAGAVI

Information Technology and Biotechnology Minister Priyank Kharge has said that efforts are underway to simplify procedures and promote investment in the proposed Mangaluru IT Park, planned under a Public–Private Partnership (PPP) model. Speaking during the Assembly's Question Hour at Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi, he emphasized that Udupi, Mangaluru and Manipal have immense potential for investment and job creation, making them suitable for establishing a commercial IT office park.

Responding to a question from BJP MLA Dr. Y. Bharat Shetty, the minister informed that tenders have already been invited for setting up the IT Park at Derebailu (Blueberry Hills Road) in Mangaluru's Kasaba Hobli. The contract includes designing, building, financing, operating and transferring the project over a 30-year period. The tender bidding process is scheduled for December 15, he said.

Kharge added that before finalising the project, consultations were held with IT companies, educational institutions, entrepreneurs and local representatives from the three cities. Based on these discussions, Udupi, Mangaluru and Manipal have been grouped into a single cluster to attract investments and boost employment opportunities.

Raising the issue, Dr. Bharat Shetty said the IT Park is crucial for Mangaluru's economic development, but the requirement to deposit 50% of the land value poses difficulties for developers, as banks may not provide loans under such conditions. He requested the government to reconsider this policy, especially when it comes to projects on government land.

Responding to this concern, Minister Kharge stated that the tender process scheduled for December 15 will go ahead as planned. After the bidding is completed, the government will review the policy if necessary, ensuring the project remains viable and beneficial for the region.

He delivered these directions while presiding over a preliminary meeting held at the DC office on Wednesday, focusing on ensuring adequate maize supply for poultry and livestock feed units.

During the meeting, the DC said that details regarding the annual production capacity of feed units and their maize storage capabilities must be compiled without delay. He further directed officials to facilitate the procurement of high-quality maize from farmers through the Karnataka State Cooperative Marketing Federation (KSCMF), ensuring transparency and fair pricing.

Venkatesh added that a decision on establishing procurement centres would be taken only after a joint team—comprising tahsildars, assistant agriculture directors, and assistant directors from the animal husbandry department—visits various feed units across taluks. These teams will assess storage facilities, verify requirements, and submit reports, following which suitable procurement points will be finalised.

Speaking at the meeting, Dr. N. Kumar, Deputy Director of the Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Services Department, noted that guidelines for purchasing maize grown during the current monsoon season have already been issued by KSCMF, and that all departments will strictly follow these procedures.

Additional DC B.T. Kumaraswamy, Joint Director of Agriculture B. Manjunath, Polyclinic Deputy Director Dr. C. Tippeswamy, officials from cooperative departments, representatives of feed production units, TAP-CMS, and primary agricultural cooperative societies were present.

Supreme Court Reserves Verdict On 2020 Riots

New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Wednesday reserved its decision on bail pleas of activists Umar Khalid, Sharjeel Imam, and others in the UAPA case linked to the February 2020 Delhi riots. The riots, during protests against the CAA and NRC, killed 53 people and injured over 700. The Delhi Police called the violence "orchestrated and preplanned." The accused are challenging the Delhi High Court's September order rejecting their bail in the alleged conspiracy case.

Kangana Says Modi Wins Hearts, Not Hack EVMs

BJP MP Kangana Ranaut praised PM Narendra Modi, criticised opposition, and defended women's dignity

NEW DELHI

BJP MP Kangana Ranaut said in Lok Sabha that Prime Minister Narendra Modi does not need to tamper with electronic voting machines, as "he has hacked the hearts of the people." Participating in a discussion on election reforms, she expressed concern over daily disruptions by opposition MPs, saying their behaviour often felt "traumatic" and prevented Parliament from functioning effectively.

Ranaut criticised the opposition for repeatedly shouting, jumping into the Well, and creating spectacles during sessions. "Maybe, barring the last two or three days, they did not let the House run at all," she said, urging new MPs to focus on learning and fulfilling their responsibilities.

Addressing EVM tampering allegations, she mocked calls to return to paper ballots, calling them "an outdated relic of another era." She also targeted Rahul Gandhi for speaking in metaphors instead of providing evidence, while asserting that Congress leaders could not accept electoral defeats.

The MP further condemned opposition members for displaying a photograph of a woman of "foreign origin" in the House, calling it a violation of her dignity and personality rights. "On behalf of this House, I apologise to her," she said, emphasising that every woman deserves respect.

Ranaut contrasted opposition behaviour with the Modi government's initiatives empowering women, citing schemes like Beti Bachao Beti Padhao, construction of household toilets, and free cooking gas connections. She also criticised Priyanka Gandhi Vadra for suggesting the government should "leave the past behind," alleging that the Congress has long been "steeped in entitlement" and cannot ignore its own history.

Ranaut's speech highlighted her support for Modi's leadership style, his policies for women's welfare, and her criticism of opposition tactics in Parliament, particularly regarding disruptions, EVM allegations, and personal attacks.

India, US Strengthen Ties Through Strategic Talks

NEW DELHI

Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri hosted Allison Hooker, Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs, for discussions aimed at strengthening the U.S.-India strategic partnership. The talks focused on defence, technology, and security cooperation, building on the vision set by President Donald Trump and Prime Minister Narendra Modi during their February meeting.

The discussions reviewed the India-US Comprehensive Global Strategic Partnership, covering trade, investment, defence ties, civil nuclear cooperation, critical minerals, emerging technologies, and trusted supply chains, including the ongoing TRUST initiative. Both sides explored ways to convert previous agreements into tangible outcomes benefiting both nations.

Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri and US diplomat Allison Hooker discussed defence, technology, trade, and security, aiming to convert previous agreements into practical outcomes strengthening India-US strategic partnership

Hooker, on a five-day visit to India, highlighted Washington's intent to enhance cooperation in sectors such as defence, energy, technology, space, and supply chain resilience. The talks also reaffirmed support for a free and open Indo-Pacific and examined regional and global developments affecting bilateral cooperation.

The February 2025 Modi-Trump meeting had set ambitious goals, including expanding Indian purchases of U.S. oil, gas, and military platforms like F-35 jets, pursuing a major trade agreement, and achieving USD 500 billion in annual bilateral trade by 2030.

The US Embassy said the talks were an opportunity to strengthen cooperation that fuels U.S. innovation while supporting India's rise as a global technology leader. Both sides emphasized the value of practical measures in defence, energy, technology, and trusted supply chains to deliver benefits to citizens of both countries.

The consultations reflected a broad commitment to deepen strategic, economic, and technological ties, ensuring that the India-US partnership continues to grow in scope and impact.

Former Judges Condemn Campaign Against CJI Over Rohingya Remarks

NEW DELHI

Forty-four former judges of the Supreme Court and High Courts have condemned what they called a "motivated campaign" against the Chief Justice of India (CJI) following his remarks on Rohingya migrants during court proceedings. In an open letter, the retired judges said disparaging the Supreme Court is unacceptable and criticism must remain fair and reasoned, not aimed at undermining the judiciary.

The judges noted that the CJI was criticised merely for asking basic legal questions about the status claimed by Rohingya migrants. They emphasised that the Bench had affirmed that no one in India—citizen or foreigner—can be subjected to torture or inhuman treatment, upholding human dignity.

The letter pointed out that most Rohingyas entered India without legal refugee protection, often through irregular means, and cannot claim refugee status by mere assertion. India is not a signatory to the 1951 UN Refugee Convention or 1967 Protocol, and obligations arise from the Constitution, immigration laws, and human-rights principles.

The judges raised concerns over the reported misuse of Indian identity documents like Aadhaar and ration cards by Rohingya migrants, supporting a court-monitored Special Investigation Team (SIT) to investigate illegal document procurement and possible trafficking networks.

While recognising the humanitarian crisis in Myanmar, the letter stressed that Indian courts must follow legal categories, balancing national security with human dignity. The former judges warned that questioning nationality, migration, or documentation issues should not be labelled as prejudice, as it could threaten judicial independence.

Signatories include ex-Supreme Court judges Anil Dave and Hemant Gupta, former Rajasthan High Court Chief Justice Anil Deo Singh, and former Chief Justice of J&K and Delhi High Courts B.C. Patel. The letter concluded: "Bharat's constitutional order demands both humanity and vigilance."

Ravi Shankar Prasad Blasts Congress In Lok Sabha Debate

NEW DELHI

Senior BJP leader and former Union Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad strongly rebuked Congress in a fiery Lok Sabha debate on electoral reforms, accusing the party of questioning the democratic process only after losing elections.

Prasad noted that the opposition routinely challenges the Election Commission's integrity following setbacks. "If the people of India are choosing not to vote for you, what fault is ours?" he said, earning applause from Treasury benches. Highlighting Congress' poor performance in the Bihar Assembly elections, he remarked that despite loud rallies and repeated allegations tied to the Special Investigation Report (SIR), the party won just five seats, crediting voter support to BJP-led development initiatives under Chief Minister Nitish Kumar.

The BJP leader also targeted Congress General Secretary K.C. Venugopal, who had criticized the government over the SIR, the Chief Election Commissioner's selection, and alleged "vote theft." Prasad pointed out that Venugopal is a petitioner in the Supreme Court on the same matter and questioned his moral authority to comment, urging the Chair to expunge his remarks from the official records.

Bail Granted To Congress MLA In Second Assault Case

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

A Thiruvananthapuram court on Wednesday granted bail to expelled Congress MLA Rahul Mamkootathil in the second sexual assault case filed against him. The order provides him interim relief while two other cases against him continue to be investigated.

The court had reserved its decision on his anticipatory bail plea two days ago and instructed investigators not to take any coercive action until the verdict. Mamkootathil had been absconding since late November, and the bail directs him to appear before the investigating officer every Monday.

The second case arises from fresh allegations that

Mamkootathil sexually assaulted a survivor despite her pleas for mercy. She had earlier stayed silent due to threats and intimidation. Her statement, along with WhatsApp chats, audio clips, and other digital evidence, has been recorded by Superintendent of Police Poonguzhali and submitted to the court.

The High Court has already stayed his arrest in the first sexual assault case until December 15, when a final ruling on his bail plea is expected. Mamkootathil's lawyers argue the allegations are politically motivated and unreliable, while the prosecution points to corroborating digital evidence and the gravity of the charges.

Police operations are ongoing, with a newly formed special investigation team taking over to prevent information leaks. The previous team, which conducted searches in Karnataka, has returned, and the new team continues its investigation to ensure thorough scrutiny of all evidence.

The court's bail decision marks a significant development in a case that has attracted intense legal and public attention, highlighting the ongoing investigation into serious allegations against the former MLA.

Chhattisgarh Approves Case Withdrawal For Surrendered Maoists

RAIPUR

The Chhattisgarh Cabinet on Wednesday approved a structured mechanism to withdraw criminal cases against surrendered Maoists under the state's Naxal Surrender/Victim Relief and Rehabilitation Policy 2025. The initiative aims to strengthen rehabilitation by assessing the good conduct and positive contributions of surrendered extremists in anti-Maoist operations before considering case withdrawal.

A district-level committee will first review cases and submit reports to the Police Headquarters. A Cabinet sub-committee will then scrutinize recommendations and forward them to the full Cabinet for final approval. Cases under central laws require Union Government consent, while others will proceed through respective courts via district magistrates for formal withdrawal.

In addition, the Cabinet approved the Chhattisgarh Jan Vishwas (Amendment of Provisions) (Second) Bill, 2025, simplifying 116 provisions across 14 Acts of 11 departments. The reforms aim to reduce criminalisation of minor infractions, ease compliance, and promote business-friendly regulations, making Chhattisgarh the first state to implement a second version of Jan Vishwas reforms.

The Cabinet also sanctioned the Chhattisgarh Appropriation Bill, 2025, enabling the presentation of the first supplementary budget estimates for 2025–26 in the state Assembly.

Tribal Woman's Head Found, Internet Ban Extended in Odisha

MALKANGIRI

The Odisha government extended the suspension of internet services for another 24 hours in violence-hit Malkangiri district after the severed head of a tribal woman, Lake Podiami, was recovered from a riverbank. The 51-year-old's head was found about 15 km from where her body was discovered on December 4, near a Kanya Ashram on the Poteru riverbank.

Prohibitory orders remain in force in Rakhelguda and MV-25 villages, where tensions escalated after the woman's murder. Her mortal remains were buried on Tuesday under tight security in the presence of senior officials. Police are examining the recovered head and continuing investigations to determine the circumstances of the killing.

Lake Podiami had gone missing on December 1, and her family filed a missing persons report on December 3. Violence erupted on Sunday after her body was found headless, with tribals from Rakhelguda allegedly attacking MV-26 village, damaging and setting fire to around 200 houses.

Subha Ranjan Mandal (42) has been arrested in connection with the murder. Authorities are taking steps to restore normalcy, providing relief to affected residents. Malkangiri District Collector Somesh Kumar Upadhyay said a free kitchen has been set up at MV-26 village, distributing food, blankets, and essentials. Around 300 people who had fled the village have returned and are staying in temporary shelters.

Telangana Joins Hands With IIFA For Global Cinema

HYDERABAD

The Telangana government, led by Chief Minister Revanth Reddy, has entered a landmark multi-year partnership with the International Indian Film Academy (IIFA) to showcase Indian cinema globally and boost the state's cultural presence. The deal was announced at the Telangana Rising Global Summit 2025 and positions Hyderabad as a hub for creativity and culture.

Under the agreement, IIFA will promote Telangana at the 26th IIFA Awards in 2026 and host IIFA Utsavam in Hyderabad from 2026 to 2028. The festival will celebrate Telugu, Tamil, Kannada, and Malayalam cinema while drawing international filmmakers, creators, and investors to the state. IIFA broadcasts to over 120 countries, reaching more than 2.5 billion viewers, offering Telangana a platform to enhance tourism and global engagement.

Reddy described the partnership as transformative, saying it reflects Telangana's ambition and openness to collaboration. "Through IIFA 2026, we will take the story of Telangana to the world, and with IIFA Utsavam, we bring the world back to our state," he said, highlighting the role of cinema in cultural diplomacy and soft-power leadership.

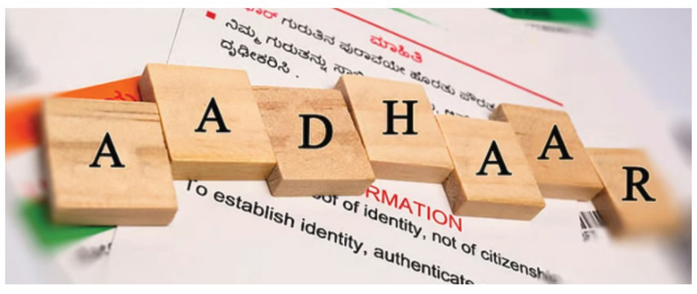
Officials said this collaboration marks one of the most ambitious cultural and economic initiatives by an Indian state. It aligns with Telangana's vision to become a $1 trillion economy by 2034 and positions Hyderabad as a rising global centre for film-led tourism, innovation, and the creative economy.

The partnership aims to cement Telangana as the cultural capital of South India and a destination for international audiences and investors, combining art, business, and diplomacy on a global stage.

AADHAAR BAN STORAGE

UIDAI Bans Private Aadhaar Photocopy Storage

NEW DELHI



The Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) will soon implement a rule banning private entities, like hotels and event organisers, from storing physical copies of Aadhaar cards. The new rule will require such entities to register for Aadhaar-based verification before using it.

UIDAI CEO Bhuvnesh Kumar said the initiative aims to discourage paper-based Aadhaar verification and enhance privacy and security. "The new rule has been approved and will be notified soon. It will mandate registration of offline verification-seeking entities," he stated.

To support this, UIDAI has launched the Aadhaar Paperless Offline e-KYC Verification, allowing Aadhaar holders to share their identity without handing over physical copies. Users can download the e-KYC data via the mAadhaar portal or app, Aadhaar Seva Kendra, or through SMS and biometric authentication.

The offline e-KYC includes details such as name, address, photo, gender, date of birth, mobile number, and email in hashed form. This process ensures secure verification, reduces dependency on intermediate servers, and prevents misuse or data leaks.

Kumar emphasised that this paperless process will make offline verification easier while maintaining user privacy. Entities that previously relied on storing Aadhaar photocopies will now adopt digital verification methods, making identity checks safer and more reliable.

The move is part of UIDAI's ongoing effort to modernise Aadhaar usage, improve data security, and encourage citizens and institutions to adopt safer verification practices nationwide.

Human Rights Day reminds us to protect dignity and equality

UN Chief Calls Universal Human Rights Philosophical Breakthrough

NEW DELHI

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres said human rights are a philosophical and political breakthrough that everyone must strive for. His message, read by UN Resident Coordinator Areti Saianni at Bharat Mandapam, was attended by President Droupadi Murmu and NHRC Chairman Justice B Ramasubramanian. Guterres highlighted that nearly 80 years ago, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) defined essential rights needed for all humans to survive and thrive.

The message stressed that civil, political, economic, social, and cultural rights are inalienable, indivisible, and interdependent. However, recent years have seen shrinking civic spaces and serious violations, showing disregard for rights and indifference to human suffering. The UN works daily to help people realize basic rights by delivering food, providing shelter, supporting education and elections, clearing mines, defending the environment, empowering women, and promoting peace. Guterres emphasized that this effort requires everyone's participation to protect the most vulnerable and uphold institutions defending human rights.

President Droupadi Murmu said Human Rights Day is a reminder that universal human rights are inalienable and form the foundation of a just and compassionate society. She recalled that 77 years ago, the world agreed that every human is born free and equal in dignity and rights, noting India's important role in shaping the global human rights framework. Human Rights Day, observed annually on December 10, marks the anniversary of the UDHR, a landmark document guaranteeing rights to all individuals regardless of race, religion, sex, or status.

Jaishankar described Rajaji as "one of India's most influential public minds," whose life, ideals, and thoughts continue to guide the nation.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi also paid tributes to Rajagopalachari, popularly known as Rajaji, on his 147th birth anniversary. Sharing archival photographs and a 1922 edition of Young India, Modi praised him as a freedom fighter, thinker, intellectual, and statesman who upheld human dignity and contributed significantly to India's independence and governance.

Born on December 10, 1878, in Madras Presidency, Rajagopalachari was a lawyer and early political comrade of Mahatma Gandhi. His leadership and intellectual contributions earned him respect across political circles.

Rajagopalachari became India's last Governor-General, a position abolished after India became a republic in 1950. He was elected to the Constituent Assembly from Madras and served on the sub-committee on minorities, helping shape India's democratic framework. Recognising his lifetime of service, he was conferred with the Bharat Ratna in 1954, India's highest civilian award.

Prime Witness Injured, Son And Driver Killed Accident

BARASAT

Bholanath Ghosh, a key witness in cases related to jailed TMC leader Sheikh Shahjahan, was injured when a truck collided with his car on Basanti Highway in North 24 Parganas, West Bengal, on Wednesday. His younger son, Satyajit (32), and driver Sahanur Molla (27) were killed when the 16-wheel truck dragged their car into a nearby water body. The truck driver fled the scene, and the vehicle was found dangling over the water.

Ghosh, initially treated at a local hospital, was later shifted to a private facility in Kolkata and released after primary treatment. The bodies of the deceased were sent to SSKM Hospital for post-mortem. Ghosh had been heading to the Basirhat sub-divisional court to appear in a case filed by Shahjahan. Eyewitnesses claimed the truck jumped lanes and hit the car at high speed, suggesting a deliberate attack. Ghosh's elder son, Biswajit, alleged that Shahjahan, from jail, orchestrated the incident through aides Sabita Roy and Moslem Sheikh. Both denied the allegations, calling them baseless.

Shahjahan was arrested by West Bengal Police in February 2024 after evading authorities for 55 days following an attack on Enforcement Directorate officials. He faces investigations for multiple cases, including forceful land acquisition and sexual assault in Sandeshkhali. Official complaints from Ghosh's family were yet to be lodged, and the police are expected to investigate the accident further.

Diwali now recognised globally for its cultural and spiritual significance

PM Modi Hails Diwali UNESCO Intangible Heritage Recognition

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday praised the inclusion of Diwali in the UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage list. He described the festival as closely linked to India's culture and ethos, calling it "the soul of our civilisation" that represents illumination and righteousness. Modi said the recognition will enhance the festival's global popularity and hoped the ideals of Lord Shri Ram continue to inspire people.

External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar also welcomed the listing, calling it a recognition of Diwali's immense cultural, religious, and spiritual significance and its role in uniting people. The Ministry of External Affairs confirmed the inscription, highlighting the importance of the festival in India and worldwide.

UNESCO described Deepavali as a light festival celebrated annually across India, marking the last harvest and the start of a new year. The festival, based on the lunar calendar, falls in October or November and lasts several days. It symbolizes the victory of light over darkness and good over evil. During Diwali, people clean and decorate homes, light lamps, offer prayers, and set off fireworks for prosperity and new beginnings.

India has a growing presence on UNESCO's Intangible Heritage List, with other entries including Ramlila (2008), Yoga (2016), Kumbh Mela (2017), Durga Puja (2021), Garba (2023), Navroz (2024), and the traditional brass and copper craft of the Thatheras of Punjab (2014). Intangible cultural heritage encompasses practices, knowledge, rituals, performing arts, and crafts passed down generations, strengthening cultural identity and diversity. UNESCO adopted the 2003 Convention to safeguard such traditions from threats posed by globalization, social changes, and limited resources.

Tamil Nadu Likely To Witness Coalition Government 2026

CHENNAI

AMMK general secretary T.T.V. Dhinakaran on Wednesday said Tamil Nadu is expected to have a coalition government after the 2026 Assembly elections, as no single party appears likely to secure an absolute majority. Speaking to the media, he noted the political landscape points to a fractured mandate, making coalition arrangements inevitable.

Dhinakaran added that if a strong alliance forms under actor Vijay-led Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK), it could challenge the ruling DMK-led coalition. He also clarified that his recent meeting with former BJP Tamil Nadu president K. Annamalai in Coimbatore was personal and not politically motivated.

On allegations regarding the demolition of 125 Hindu temples, Dhinakaran said he would not comment without verifying facts, urging political groups to act responsibly and avoid communal friction.

He reiterated the call for unity among followers of late Chief Minister J. Jayalalithaa, hinting at internal realignments within the AIADMK camp and citing O. Panneerselvam's position.

The AMMK leader raised concerns over rising murder and robbery cases due to the drug menace and claimed that women's safety has deteriorated significantly.

Regarding future strategies, Dhinakaran said formal announcements about alliances would be made in the next two months. While discussions are ongoing with some parties for potential tie-ups, he did not reveal the names.

NAGPUR

Maharashtra Public Health and Family Welfare Minister Prakash Abitkar on Wednesday directed the state administration to prepare a comprehensive plan to strengthen health institutions, from population-wise sub-centres to referral hospitals, ensuring quality services for all citizens.

Addressing a review meeting on under-construction health buildings, Abitkar emphasised that all National Health Mission facilities should be fully functional for patient care. "Health institutions must be upgraded as per demand. Budgets should be monitored, and no compromise made on cleanliness, food, or manpower," he said.

He stressed strict action against lapses in hygiene and service, including paying contractual employees per the Minimum Wages Act and blacklisting contractors involved in malpractices. Officials guilty of negligence are also to face strict action.

Abitkar instructed completion of Thane General Hospital on a war footing and reactivation for patient service. The review covered multiple hospitals across the state, including Sangamner Women's Hospital, Jivati Rural Hospital, Daga Hospital, Umred Sub-District Hospital, Dharashiv District Hospital, and Palghar's Manor Trauma Care, among others.

The minister also called for improving hospital infrastructure, hygiene, and food quality, with strict checks to prevent lapses. A statewide mechanical linen washing service for 593 government hospitals will ensure sterilised, infection-free linen.

WHO, Health Ministry Launch Women's Metro Campaign

NEW DELHI

The World Health Organisation (WHO) and the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare launched a month-long campaign on women's and girls' health at Sultanpur Metro Station, Delhi, on Wednesday. Running from December 10, 2025, to January 10, 2026, the initiative uses Delhi Metro trains and stations to spread messages on women's safety, mental well-being, TB awareness, digital access, and the PC&PNDT Act, 1994.

The campaign train, themed "Healthy Women = Healthy Nations, BcozSheMatters," was flagged off by Catharina Boehme, Officer-in-Charge of WHO South-East Asia, and Union Health Secretary Punya Salila Srivastava. Goa Nightclub Owners Denied Interim Relief By Court

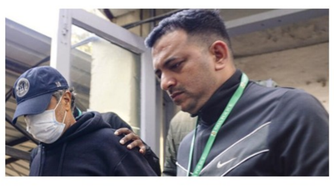
Saurabh and Gaurav Luthra, owners of Goa's Birch by Romeo Lane nightclub that caught fire killing at least 25 people, failed to secure interim relief from a Delhi court on Wednesday. The court has scheduled the hearing of their transit anticipatory bail plea for Thursday.

Additional Sessions Judge Vandana asked the Goa authorities to respond to the plea filed by the brothers, who requested four weeks of transit anticipatory bail to avoid immediate arrest upon returning to Delhi from Thailand. They also sought interim protection from arrest.

The Luthra brothers had fled to Phuket, Thailand, following the tragedy on December 6. An Interpol Blue Corner Notice has been issued against them. Earlier, a Look Out Circular was issued against Ajay Gupta, one of the four owners, after Goa police failed to locate him in Delhi; he was later detained and will be placed under arrest following formalities. Another owner, British citizen Surinder Kumar Khosla, also has an LOC issued against him.



So far, five nightclub staff have been arrested, including chief general manager Rajiv Modak, general manager Vivek Singh, bar manager Rajiv Singhania, gate manager Riyanshu Thakur, and employee Bharat Kohli.

The fire broke out around midnight on December 6 at the Arpora-based nightclub, claiming 25 lives. The investigation is ongoing as authorities continue to track down the absconding owners and examine the circumstances that led to the tragedy.

Goa Police Secures 36-Hour Transit Remand Gupta

A Delhi court on Wednesday granted Goa Police a 36-hour transit remand of Ajay Gupta, one of the four owners of Birch by Romeo Lane nightclub, where a fire killed 25 people on December 6. Gupta, detained in Delhi, will be questioned before being taken to Goa. The court directed that his spinal injury and medical needs be considered during custody. Meanwhile, owners Saurabh and Gaurav Luthra are in Thailand, and an Interpol Blue Corner Notice has been issued. Five nightclub staff have already been arrested in connection with the tragedy.

Gujarat Crime Branch Intensifies Cyber Fraud Crackdown

Investigators are also examining the role of personnel from two banks to check whether negligence or collusion enabled misuse of these accounts. Additionally, 18 SIM card vendors suspected of issuing fraudulent SIMs to support the operations are under probe. A detailed financial and digital analysis of the accounts and their wider network is ongoing.

The crackdown focuses on organised groups renting or operating mule accounts and scrutinises compliance by banks and digital platforms. Non-compliant entities may face action by the Gujarat Cyber Tribunal.

Turkish Foreign Minister Hakan Fidan expressed hope that sanctions could soon be lifted. Talks aim to satisfy both U.S. security and Turkey's interests.

Lahore tops global pollution charts again

ISLAMABAD

Lahore has been ranked the world's most polluted city with an Air Quality Index (AQI) of 353, according to Swiss monitor IQAir. Quetta also recorded severe pollution with an AQI of 517. Poor air quality affected Rahim Yar Khan, Gujranwala, and Faisalabad, while fog reduced visibility on highways. Smog, caused by diesel fumes, agricultural burning, and low temperatures, worsens respiratory health. Pakistan's limited forest cover, rising temperatures, and stressed water systems add to environmental challenges. Persistent pollution in major cities highlights urgent need for action to protect public health and infrastructure.

Russia awaits US reply on nuclear arms treaty

Shoigu warned the treaty ends soon, urging Moscow's proposal to curb nuclear risks

MOSCOW

Russia said Wednesday it is still waiting for a formal response from the United States regarding President Vladimir Putin's proposal to extend the last remaining Russian-U.S. arms control treaty, New START, which is set to expire on February 5.

New START limits the number of strategic nuclear warheads and the deployment of land- and submarine-based missiles and bombers by both countries. In September, Putin offered to maintain the treaty's limits for one year. Former President Donald Trump called the idea "a good idea" in October.

Sergei Shoigu, secretary of Russia's Security Council, said less than 100 days remain before the treaty's expiry. Speaking to reporters in Hanoi, he described Moscow's proposal as an opportunity to stop the "destructive movement" currently affecting nuclear arms control. Russia and the U.S. together hold over 10,000 nuclear warheads, around 87% of the global total.

China, with about 600 warheads, is the third-largest nuclear power. New START and other arms control treaties were created during the Cold War to reduce misunderstandings and slow the nuclear arms race. However, most treaties have eroded over the last decade as major powers modernize their arsenals amid geopolitical tensions, including Russia's war in Ukraine and NATO expansion. Each side blames the other for the breakdown of agreements.

The Trump administration's new National Security Strategy emphasizes reestablishing strategic stability with Russia, aiming to resume nuclear arms discussions. Rose Gottemoeller, former U.S. negotiator for New START, said extending the treaty with Russia could give the U.S. more time to address China's nuclear buildup while managing Russian deployments.

Analysts say a joint extension could stabilize global nuclear dynamics and reduce risks of a new arms race between major powers.

S. Korea orders probe into church-politician ties

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung on Wednesday ordered a strict investigation into alleged illegal links between politicians and a religious group, amid claims that lawmakers from both ruling and opposition parties received illicit funds. The presidential office said Lee instructed authorities to conduct the probe "in a strict manner regardless of whether they are from the ruling or opposition parties or whether their positions are high or low." While he did not explicitly name the Unification Church, recent reports suggest the ruling Democratic Party (DP) may have accepted illegal political contributions from the church, which has already faced scrutiny for providing funds to opposition lawmakers ahead of the 2022 presidential election. A senior presidential official said Lee is determined to sever entrenched collusive ties between politics and religious organizations. The president emphasized that any illegal contacts or acts involving lawmakers should be investigated equally across parties. Lee has previously described systematic political interference by certain religious groups as unconstitutional and called for measures to dissolve organizations found guilty of illegal acts, citing a similar court ruling in Japan in March, where the Unification Church was dissolved for manipulative fundraising and stripped of tax-exempt status. Meanwhile, former Unification Church official Yun Young-ho, involved in a corruption case linked to former President Yoon Suk Yeol, is expected to name DP lawmakers allegedly involved in accepting funds during a final trial hearing.

Over 100,000 Cambodians flee Thailand border clashes

PHNOM PENH

Over 100,000 Cambodian villagers have fled their homes as clashes with Thailand continue for the fourth day, a defence ministry spokesperson said on Wednesday. Lt. Gen. Maly Socheata, Undersecretary of State and spokesperson for Cambodia's Defence Ministry, said 101,129 people, including infants, children, pregnant women, the elderly, and people with disabilities, have sought safety in secure zones.

Clashes have closed 514 schools in Cambodia's border provinces, impacting 130,000 students and 4,650 teachers, with Oddar Meanchey, Preah Vihear, and Banteay Meanchey most affected

Socheata said the Thai army used heavy weapons, including F-16 fighter jets, to target Cambodian military posts and civilian areas from Sunday afternoon until Wednesday morning. At least seven Cambodian civilians were killed and 20 others were injured during the ongoing conflict.

Singapore's Ministry of Foreign Affairs urged both countries to exercise restraint and solve their issues through dialogue and negotiations. The ministry called for adherence to the principles of the Joint Declaration, emphasizing that peaceful resolution is crucial for long-term relations between Cambodia and Thailand and the wider interests of ASEAN. Singaporeans were advised to avoid travel to border areas and follow local safety updates.

The clashes have forced the closure of 514 schools in border provinces, affecting around 130,000 students and 4,650 teachers, according to Cambodia's Ministry of Education, Youth and Sport. Oddar Meanchey, Preah Vihear, and Banteay Meanchey provinces are the most affected.

Since the violence began on Sunday, at least 16,568 families, totaling 54,550 people, have fled to safer areas. The Defence Ministry said Thai forces continued attacks overnight, resulting in two civilian deaths on a national road. The conflict shows no immediate signs of abating, leaving thousands displaced and essential services disrupted across the border regions.

Democrat wins Miami mayoral race after decades

MIAMI

Democrat Eileen Higgins was elected Miami mayor, becoming the first member of her party to hold the post in nearly 30 years. Higgins defeated Republican Emilio Gonzalez, who had received public backing from former President Donald Trump, in a predominantly Hispanic city that has long been part of Trump's Florida base. Election results, called by CNN and the Associated Press shortly after polls closed, showed Higgins leading Gonzalez by 18 percentage points. The race, officially nonpartisan, drew national attention as a key test of voter sentiment in Trump's political stronghold.

Higgins, 61, a former Miami-Dade County commissioner, emphasized local issues in her victory statement, calling the result a moment that "turned the page on years of chaos and corruption" in the city. She becomes Miami's first woman mayor and the first non-Hispanic candidate to win the office since the 1990s. The last Democrat to hold the mayor's office was Xavier Suarez in 1997, the father of outgoing Republican mayor Francis Suarez.

The results indicate a shift in Miami-Dade, where Hispanic voters who supported Trump in 2024 may be returning to Democrats.

In the first round of voting on November 4, Higgins led with 36% of the vote, while Gonzalez received 18%, setting up the runoff. Although both candidates initially ran with little partisan focus, the race gained national significance after Trump's public endorsement of Gonzalez and the Democratic Party's support for Higgins.

Venezuela accuses US of waging psychological warfare

CARACAS

Venezuelan Foreign Minister Yvan Gil said the United States is conducting "psychological warfare" against Venezuela after its economic sanctions failed to achieve results.

Speaking at the opening of the People's Assembly for Peace and Sovereignty of Our America in Caracas, Gil said the US is now relying on economic, military, and media power to exert pressure on Venezuela and the region.

"This is a very important challenge in the history of our republics," Gil said. The assembly brings together more than 500 delegates from around 50 countries.

The event, organized by Venezuela's National Council for Sovereignty and Peace, will focus on issues such as the US military threat, transnational crime, and the Monroe Doctrine, which Gil described as a strategy used by Washington to dominate the region.

Gil noted that since August, the United States has maintained a strong military presence in the Caribbean, claiming it is part of anti-drug operations. Venezuela, however, views it as an attempt to promote regime change.

Media reports say US President Donald Trump set a November 28 deadline for President Nicolas Maduro to step down, which Maduro refused. During a November 21 phone call, Maduro demanded "global amnesty" for himself and others, rejecting US pressure. The assembly continues discussions on regional security, sovereignty, and ways to counter perceived US influence in Latin America, Gil added.

Twelve Died in Southern China residential fire

SHANTOU

Twelve people died in a fire at a four-storey residential building in Shantou, a city in southern China, authorities said on Wednesday.

The fire started on Tuesday night at 9:20 p.m. local time and was put out about 40 minutes later, according to state news agency Xinhua. Rescue teams rushed to the scene, but the flames had already claimed twelve lives.

Officials have opened an investigation to find out what caused the blaze. The incident has raised concern about fire safety in residential buildings across China.

This tragedy comes soon after Hong Kong's deadliest fire in decades, which killed 160 people. In response, Chinese leaders have called for the removal of safety hazards in housing and strict inspections of fire safety standards.

Last month, China began nationwide checks on high-rise buildings to prevent similar disasters.

The Shantou fire adds to a growing list of deadly incidents in the country in recent years.

Earlier this year, twenty people died in a nursing home fire in Hebei province. Weeks later, a restaurant fire in northeastern China killed twenty-two people.

Authorities continue to urge building owners and residents to follow safety rules to prevent such tragedies. Local emergency services remain on alert as investigations continue.

Bushfire forces evacuation in Northeast Tasmania

CANBERRA

Residents of Stieglitz, a coastal town in northeastern Tasmania, have been told to evacuate immediately after a bushfire destroyed two structures, authorities said. The town, about 190 kilometres from Hobart, has around 600 residents. The Tasmania Fire Service (TFS) issued an emergency warning Wednesday morning, saying the uncontrolled fire poses a serious threat to lives and property. Officials warned of thick smoke, flying embers, and spot fires that could endanger homes before the main fire arrives. Earlier this week, more than 30 homes were damaged or destroyed in nearby Dolphin Sands, 105 kilometres northeast of Hobart. Nineteen homes were completely destroyed, and 14 others suffered damage. Over 120 other assets, including garages, outbuildings, and electrical infrastructure, were also affected, TFS said.

Although the fire in Dolphin Sands was contained by Monday morning, authorities warned it was still unsafe for residents to return.

US may treat SA differently under AGOA

WASHINGTON

U.S. Trade Representative Jamieson Greer said that South Africa could be treated differently than other African countries if the African Growth and Opportunity Act (AGOA) is extended. The trade initiative, which provides duty-free access to the U.S. market for many African goods, expired in September. Greer spoke at a Senate Appropriations subcommittee hearing, saying the Trump administration is open to a one-year AGOA extension. However, he described South Africa as a "unique problem" and suggested it could be excluded if Congress supports such a move.

He emphasized that South Africa would need to lower tariffs on U.S. products and reduce non-tariff barriers if it wants the U.S. to remove its 30% duties on South African imports. In August, Washington imposed these tariffs after Pretoria failed to respond to multiple U.S. trade proposals. A spokesperson for South Africa's trade ministry stated that the country remains committed to being included in any AGOA extension and will continue lobbying for the initiative in its current form. Tensions between the two countries have escalated following the U.S. boycott of South Africa's G20 summit last month and its decision to exclude the country from the next G20 meeting in Miami. Secretary of State Marco Rubio and former President Donald Trump have accused South Africa of discrimination against white citizens, claims widely discredited. Greer highlighted that South Africa, as the continent's most developed economy, has an industrial and agricultural base and should import more U.S. products. He added that the proposed one-year AGOA extension would allow the administration and Congress to work on improving trade relations while addressing current barriers.

The Ministry of Defence said the visit highlights India's commitment to strengthening ties with the Brazilian Navy through maritime security, professional exchanges, and capacity development. Both navies reaffirmed their resolve to enhance collaboration, contributing to regional and global maritime stability and the safety of shared maritime routes.

RBI Governor calls banks to cut costs

NEW DELHI

Governor Malhotra stated that lower policy rates and greater technology use can improve bank efficiency, reduce customer costs, but banks must stay vigilant despite operational and health improvements in 2025

Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Governor Sanjay Malhotra has urged top officials of public and select private banks to lower intermediation costs and improve efficiency. The appeal comes after a 125 basis point reduction in policy rates since February, aimed at boosting financial inclusion and supporting sustainable growth.

Governor Malhotra highlighted that the combination of lower policy rates and wider use of technology should help banks operate more efficiently while reducing costs for customers. He added that banks should remain vigilant despite steady improvements in their health and operations in 2025.

The RBI chief emphasized the need for banks to strengthen internal systems, address customer grievances, and safeguard against rising digital fraud risks through robust, intelligence-driven measures. He also appreciated banks' work on re-KYC and unclaimed deposits and encouraged proactive outreach and awareness campaigns to benefit citizens.

This interaction with senior bank management is part of RBI's ongoing engagement with regulated entities, following similar meetings earlier this year in January. Officials discussed policy, supervisory, and operational matters to improve efficiency and customer services.

The discussions followed the Monetary Policy Committee's decision to lower the benchmark repo rate by 25 basis points to 5.25 percent, the lowest level in three years. Data from RBI showed that domestic term deposit rates dropped by 102 basis points between February and September, while new rupee loan rates fell by 73 basis points, reflecting partial transmission of rate cuts.

In addition, the RBI announced a two-month campaign starting January 1, 2026, to resolve all complaints pending with the RBI Ombudsman for over a month, further strengthening accountability and customer support.

Analysts link momentum to bullish sentiment, active PE/VC exits, abundant liquidity, and participation from investors despite underperforming new listings

India's IPO pipeline set to cross Rs 2.55 lakh crore

NEW DELHI

Indian companies are preparing for a strong initial public offering (IPO) year in 2026, with a pipeline exceeding Rs 2.55 lakh crore, as firms aim to meet robust investor demand. So far, 88 companies have received SEBI approval to raise around Rs 1.16 lakh crore, while 104 others await clearance to raise nearly Rs 1.4 lakh crore.

The surge follows a record 2025, when about 100 firms raised Rs 1.77 lakh crore through mainboard IPOs, the highest since 2007. This was slightly higher than 2024, when 91 IPOs raised Rs 1.6 lakh crore, and a significant jump from 2023's 57 IPOs raising over Rs 49,500 crore.

Market analysts attribute this momentum to bullish investor sentiment, active private equity and venture capital exits, and abundant liquidity in domestic markets. Participation came from foreign portfolio investors, retail buyers, high-net-worth individuals, and mutual funds, even though many newly listed shares are trading below their initial offer prices.

In total, promoters, private equity, and venture capital firms offloaded more than Rs 1.1 lakh crore through offers for sale (OFS) this year. Analysts noted that companies are using strong demand to secure funding before global conditions tighten. India has also simplified listing processes and encouraged large IPOs.

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) proposed reforms in November to address pre-IPO pledged shares and streamline public issue disclosures. This includes allowing depositories to mark pledged shares as "non-transferable" during the lock-in period, improving transparency and investor confidence.

Overall, 2026 is shaping up to be another strong year for IPOs in India, reflecting both investor appetite and companies' eagerness to raise funds.

Kotak predicts strong equities, gold to shine in 2026

MUMBAI

Kotak Securities has released its Market Outlook 2026, highlighting optimism for Indian equities and commodities amid global volatility. The report predicts equities will remain strong, supported by robust earnings and policy measures, while gold is expected to continue its role as a safe-haven asset.

Shripal Shah, MD & CEO of Kotak Securities, said India's equity market has significant untapped potential. A recent SEBI survey revealed only 9.5% of households actively invest, despite 63% being aware of market products. He emphasized the need for brokerage firms to make investing more inclusive and accessible, especially with rising participation from young investors.

The report notes Indian equities rebounded strongly in 2025 after a 17% correction from September highs. Large-cap stocks led the recovery, with automobiles, banks, and metals outperforming, while IT and FMCG lagged. Domestic investors helped cushion foreign portfolio outflows, reflecting market resilience.

Kotak projects Nifty 50 profits to grow 17.6% in FY27E and 14.8% in FY28E. Nifty targets for December 2026 include a base case of 29,120, a bull case of 32,032, and a bear case of 26,208. Preferred sectors for 2026 include BFSI, technology, healthcare, and hospitality.

In commodities, gold rose over 55% globally in 2025, surpassing $4,000 per ounce, with Indian prices up 60% due to rupee depreciation. Silver gained 100%, while crude oil fell 19%, and base metals like copper and aluminium remained firm amid structural supply constraints.

The report underscores investor confidence, sectoral opportunities, and commodity trends that are likely to shape India's financial markets in 2026.

S. Korea, India discuss stronger economic partnership

SEOUL

South Korea's Trade Minister Yeo Han-koo met the new Indian Ambassador to South Korea, Gourangalal Das, to talk about ways to strengthen trade and economic ties between the two countries. Officials said both sides agreed that the current trade agreement, known as the Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA), needs improvement so that business between the nations can grow faster. They also promised to keep close contact and work toward restarting talks on updating the CEPA as soon as possible.

During the meeting, Yeo asked for India's support for the many South Korean companies operating there. Over 670 Korean firms, including well-known names like Hyundai Motor and LG Electronics, are active in the Indian market but still face non-tariff barriers and other challenges. Yeo said India is a key partner for South Korea and expressed hope for deeper cooperation in areas such as shipbuilding, critical minerals, and other industries that have strong growth potential.

Ambassador Das said he would work actively to expand economic and trade cooperation during his time in South Korea.

Last month, President Lee Jae Myung held separate meetings with Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva during the G20 Summit in Johannesburg. In his meeting with PM Modi, President Lee shared hopes for stronger ties in the economy, culture, security, and people-to-people exchanges. PM Modi praised South Korea's advanced shipbuilding technology and said he hoped to build closer cooperation in defence and future-focused industries. Both leaders agreed to push discussions at the working level and explore new areas like artificial intelligence.

PM Modi also invited President Lee to visit India, and President Lee said he hoped to travel there to help strengthen bilateral relations.

Rabi crop sowing surpasses 479 lakh hectares

NEW DELHI

The sowing of rabi crops in India this winter season has crossed 479 lakh hectares, marking a rise of 27.89 lakh hectares compared to the same time last year, according to government data. The increase is expected to boost crop production, improve farmers' incomes, and help control food inflation.

The Agriculture Ministry reported that the area under pulses has reached 106.21 lakh hectares, up from 105.78 lakh hectares last year. Wheat sowing has risen sharply by 23.59 lakh hectares, covering 241.40 lakh hectares compared to 217.81 lakh hectares previously. Coarse cereals like jowar, bajra, and ragi now cover 36.28 lakh hectares, up from 35.94 lakh hectares, while oilseeds such as rapeseed and mustard have increased by 2.40 lakh hectares to 84.14 lakh hectares.

Officials said better monsoon rains have supported sowing, especially in unirrigated areas, which make up nearly half of India's farmland. This favorable condition has encouraged farmers to plant more crops this season.

The government has also taken measures to ensure profitability for farmers. The Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs (CCEA), chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, approved an increase in the minimum support prices (MSP) for all mandated rabi crops for the 2026-27 marketing season. Announcing MSPs before sowing allows farmers to plan their cropping decisions and maximise earnings.

Overall, the combination of higher sown area and supportive MSPs is expected to result in better harvests this year, benefiting farmers and helping maintain food price stability across the country.

PM urges public to claim forgotten money

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has urged citizens to claim their unclaimed financial assets, saying that large amounts of money lying forgotten in banks, insurance firms, and mutual fund companies can be turned into new opportunities for millions of people. Writing on LinkedIn, he said the government's "Your Money, Your Right" initiative aims to help every citizen recover what rightfully belongs to them.

PM Modi revealed several striking figures during the Hindustan Times Leade rship Summit. He said Indian banks currently hold Rs 78,000 crore of unclaimed money, insurance companies have Rs 14,000 crore, mutual funds have Rs 3,000 crore, and Rs 9,000 crore worth of dividends also remain unclaimed. He noted that these amounts represent the savings and investments of countless families and should not remain unused.

The "Your Money, Your Right" initiative, launched in October 2025, was designed to make the process of tracing and claiming such funds simple and transparent. Several dedicated online platforms have been set up: RBI's UDGAM portal for unclaimed bank deposits, IRDAI's Bima Bharosa portal for insurance proceeds, SEBI's MITRA portal for mutual fund amounts, and the IEPFA portal for unpaid dividends and unclaimed shares.

PM Modi said that by December 2025, facilitation camps had been organised in 477 districts across the country, including remote areas. Through joint efforts by the government, regulators, banks, and financial institutions, nearly Rs 2,000 crore has already been returned to rightful owners.

He asked citizens to check whether they or their family members have any unclaimed deposits or investments and to make use of the online portals and local camps. He added that the movement will be expanded in the coming days.

Your Money, Your Right' Empowers Citizens Nationwide

Union Minister Piyush Goyal called the 'Your Money, Your Right' campaign a "transformative initiative" to make India financially empowered. In two months, about Rs 2,000 crore has been returned. The campaign runs across all states and Union Territories, with facilitation camps in 477 districts. PM Modi highlighted Rs 1,04,000 crore in unclaimed assets, urging citizens to convert them into opportunities. Dominik Szoboszlai netted a late penalty, breaking Inter's 18-match unbeaten home run in Europe, as the Premier League champions battled without the unsettled Mohamed Salah. Szoboszlai stepped up in the dying minutes to convert from the spot, following a foul on substitute Florian Wirtz by Inter’s Alessandro Bastoni. The win was vital for Liverpool, who have faced turbulence recently, including Salah’s public criticism of manager Arne Slot after a string of poor results.

F1′s Biggest Rule Change Ever: Teen Debuts, Cadillac Joins in 2026

LONDON

Formula 1 is entering a new era in 2026, with significant changes that will shake up the sport. The 2025 season saw McLaren dominate both the Constructors' and Driver's Championships, but next year promises a bold transformation.

The biggest shift comes with new technical regulations. Cars will be smaller, lighter, and more sustainable, using fully renewable fuels. The engines, still 1.6-litre V6 turbo hybrids, now feature a 50-50 split between electric and internal combustion power. Key changes also include new aerodynamic rules, with movable wings to boost straight-line speed and increased energy recovery. These changes promise to affect racing dynamics, and while drivers like Lewis Hamilton are cautiously optimistic, the full impact remains unknown.

As part of the shake-up, F1 will welcome two new teams. Cadillac, backed by General Motors, enters the grid with seasoned drivers Valtteri Bottas and Sergio Perez.

They’ll use Ferrari power units for the first three seasons while developing their own engines for 2029.

Meanwhile, Sauber becomes Audi, as the German manufacturer takes full control of the Swiss team. Audi’s driver line-up includes Nico Hulkenberg and Gabriel Bortoleto.

F1 fans can also look forward to a fresh face in the paddock: 18-year-old Arvid Lindblad. The British teenager will make his debut at Red Bull’s sister team, bringing even more excitement to the new season.

The Indian team, which includes a mix of experienced players and promising newcomers, dominated their Swiss counterparts in a Pool B fixture.

The match was set in motion by debutant Velevan Senthilkumar, who faced Robin Gadola. Senthilkumar had to overcome initial difficulties with the court conditions but managed to seal a hard-fought victory.

"The ball was bouncy throughout the match due to the warmer weather, but I adjusted and managed to get into my rhythm," said Senthilkumar after the win.

Anahat Singh, India’s 17-year-old sensation, doubled the lead with a commanding 3-0 win over Celine Walser in just 13 minutes, leaving no doubts about India’s dominance. "It was a great win, and I am happy to help the team," Anahat commented. Abhay Singh, a key player in India’s gold-winning team at the 2023 Asian Games, clinched the third victory by defeating Louai Hafez in straight games.

The match was effectively sealed, but Joshna Chinappa, India’s veteran and Commonwealth Games gold medalist, finished the tie with a victory over Stella Kaufmann.

India, who won the bronze in 2023, are looking to improve on their performance and have assembled a well-balanced squad. Their next match is against Brazil on Thursday, December 11.

Pogba invests in Saudi Arabian camel racing team

LONDON

Paul Pogba has ventured into the world of camel racing after becoming a shareholder and ambassador for Al Haboob, a Saudi Arabian-based team. Known for being the first professional camel racing team to compete internationally, Al Haboob is making waves across the UAE and the Gulf, with Pogba now playing an integral role in its journey. The Monaco midfielder, who recently returned to professional football after serving a doping ban, has expressed his enthusiasm for the sport, which has deep cultural roots in the Middle East. "I've watched my fair share of camel races and spent time doing research to understand the techniques and strategies," Pogba said. He acknowledged the dedication required in camel racing, drawing parallels to football: "At the end of the day, sport is sport. It demands heart, sacrifice, and teamwork." Pogba, 32, is no stranger to high-pressure moments, having been the world’s most expensive footballer when he transferred to Manchester United from Juventus for £89m in 2016.

Kounde's Double Powers Barcelona to Comeback Win Over Frankfurt

BARCELONA

In a thrilling Champions League encounter at Camp Nou, Barcelona avenged their humiliating defeat to Eintracht Frankfurt in the 2022 Europa League, thanks to a brace from unlikely hero Jules Kounde. The French defender's two headers early in the second half sealed a 2-1 win for the Catalans, who now hope to finish in the top eight of the league phase.

Frankfurt had taken an unexpected lead in the 21st minute through Ansgar Knauff, capitalizing on a rapid counter-attack. Barcelona struggled to break down their defense in the first half, with a disallowed goal from Robert Lewandowski and a few missed opportunities, including a near-miss from Ellyes Skhiri for Frankfurt.

However, the second half saw a rejuvenated Barcelona side, aided by the introduction of Manchester United loanee Marcus Rashford. In the 50th minute, Rashford's cross found Kounde, who headed in the equalizer. Just three minutes later, Kounde struck again, nodding in a cross from Lamine Yamal, putting Barcelona in control.

Despite not adding a third goal to seal the match, Barcelona held firm, and Frankfurt failed to find an equalizer. The win lifted Barcelona to 14th in the standings, while Frankfurt languished in 30th place. Barcelona's coach Hansi Flick expressed pride in his team's resilience, though he acknowledged the challenge of playing catch-up. "The comeback shows a lot about our attitude," Flick said, "but we need to do better in taking the lead in games."

Pressure on GILL
as India Look to Extend Lead

India's Shubman Gill faces T20 challenge ahead of second match against South Africa

MULLANPUR

With India aiming to extend their dominance in the T20 series, Shubman Gill is under pressure to deliver a substantial knock in the second T20 International against South Africa today. Despite India's impressive victory in the series opener, Gill's form since his T20 comeback in September has raised questions. Since his return to the T20 setup after an impressive Test debut as captain in the UK, Gill has struggled to find consistency at the top of the order. With Sanju Samson and Abhishek Sharma excelling in the role, the team management has continued to show faith in Gill, despite a lack of explosive performances in recent outings. Gill's playing style contrasts with that of power hitters like Sharma, and he will need to adapt to find what works best for him in the T20 format. While India's aggressive approach has left little room for anchors in the middle order, Gill's role will be crucial to building solid partnerships, especially in the early overs. Additionally, India's captain, Suryakumar Yadav, is also facing scrutiny after a dip in form over the last year. As India prepares for the World Cup defense, the consistency of key players like Suryakumar becomes a crucial factor. The second match, to be played in the cooler environment of New Chandigarh, will see little change in the winning combination from the first game. The pitch at Mullanpur, known for producing challenging conditions during the IPL, could again be a testing ground for both teams. For South Africa, a strong comeback is necessary after their heavy loss in the opening game. The team will need to build partnerships and regain momentum if they are to challenge India in the series.

Pandya Opens Up on Mental Strength after Injury Setbacks

CUTTACK

Hardik Pandya, India's dynamic all-rounder, believes that a positive mindset has been key to his comeback following injury setbacks. His return to the field after a nearly two-month hiatus due to a left quadriceps injury was marked by a match-winning performance in India's dominant 101-run win against South Africa in the first T20I on Tuesday. Pandya, who scored an unbeaten 59 off 28 balls and took 1/16 with the ball, expressed how crucial mental resilience had been during his recovery. "Injuries test you mentally, and they bring a lot of self-doubt," he said. "But I focused on coming back stronger, bigger, and better. A lot of credit goes to my loved ones for supporting me through the tough times." Pandya, who will play a vital role in India's T20 World Cup campaign in two months, emphasized that self-belief has been his driving force. "I've always believed that if you don't believe in yourself, how can others believe in you?" he said, noting that he derives confidence from within, regardless of external perceptions. The cricketer also shared his perspective on staying true to himself: "I don't sugar-coat things. I never It's about what others think, it's about how I feel inside." Pandya added that he thrives on the energy of the crowd, which motivates him to perform. "You should be a rockstar. When you perform, and the crowd goes berserk, that's the biggest motivation." Pandya, who turned a hostile Mumbai crowd into fans after his T20 World Cup triumph, described his approach to challenges: "Life throws lemons at me, but I always make lemonade."

NZ PACER Suffers Shoulder Injury, Taken To Hospital During Test vs WI

WELLINGTON

Seam bowler Blair Tickner was rushed to the hospital after sustaining a serious shoulder injury. Tickner, who had been instrumental in New Zealand's resurgence with the ball, was injured while attempting to dive for a ball at the boundary and fell heavily, unable to get up. Tickner was immediately attended to by medical staff and, after a tense few moments, was able to sit up before being taken away on a stretcher. New Zealand Cricket later confirmed that he had suffered a left shoulder injury. Before his departure, Tickner had claimed 4 wickets for 32 runs in 16 overs, leading the charge for New Zealand after a slow start. The West Indies had appeared to be in a strong position at 66-0, but Tickner's breakthroughs in quick succession shifted the momentum. The visitors consolidated to reach 175-4 at tea, but they crumbled after the break, losing six wickets for just 30 runs. Debutant Michael Rae supported Tickner well, taking 3-67 in 18 overs. Shai Hope top-scored for the West Indies with 48, while John Campbell (44) and Brandon King (33) also contributed. The injury-depleted New Zealand side had made two changes, with Mitchell Hay replacing Tom Blundell and Michael Rae making his Test debut in place of Matt Henry. The West Indies also had to make adjustments, with Tagenarine Chanderpaul ruled out due to injury and replaced by King, while Kavem Hodge and Anderson Phillip also came in for Alick Athanaze and Johann Layne. The series, which was tied 0-0 after the drawn first Test in Christchurch, continues with the third match starting December 18 in Mount Maunganui.

IPL Valuation Drops 20% in 2025; RCB Overtakes CSK after Maiden Title

MUMBAI

The Indian Premier League (IPL) has seen its brand value plummet by 20% in 2025, dropping to $9.6 billion from $12 billion in 2024, according to a report.

The sharp decline is largely attributed to the geopolitical tensions in the region, particularly the disruption caused by India's Operation Sindoor in May, which forced the suspension of the league midway through the season. The suspension, coupled with other factors such as uncertainty surrounding the future of the mega-auction and a ban on real-money gaming sponsorships, contributed to the IPL's decreased valuation.

This marks only the second year in Brand Finance's history where the IPL's brand value has seen a dip.

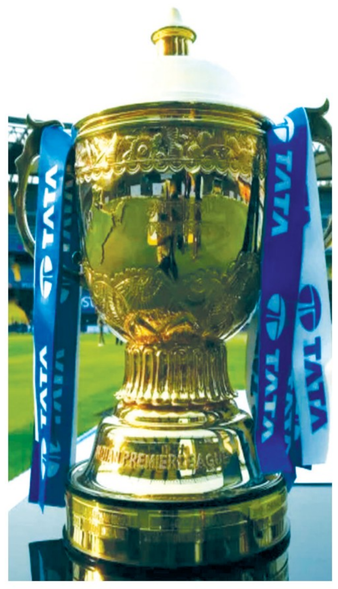
On the team front, the defending champions, Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB), surged ahead of Chennai Super Kings (CSK) to claim the second spot in the rankings after their first-ever IPL title. Despite this achievement, RCB's valuation fell by 10% to $105 million, reflecting the broader trend of declining brand values across the league.

Other teams, including Punjab Kings, Lucknow Super Giants, and Delhi Capitals, also experienced fluctuating valuations due to varying performances in the 2025 season.

The third and final Test of the IPL season will take place in 2026, as the league seeks to recover from its challenges.

TEAM VALUATIONS:

- Mumbai Indians ($108 million): Despite a 9% drop, Mumbai remains the most valuable IPL franchise, bolstered by strong commercial partnerships and fan loyalty.
- RCB ($105 million): RCB's historic title win pushed them to second place, although their valuation dropped.
- CSK ($93 million): A 24% drop in valuation followed their worst-ever finish at the bottom of the table.
- Kolkata Knight Riders ($74 million): A 33% decline due to poor performance after their 2024 championship win.
- Gujarat Titans ($70 million): The only team to see positive growth, moving up to fifth spot.



Sky's Leadership and Adaptability Key to India's Success, Says Dale Steyn

CUTTACK

Former South African pace legend Dale Steyn has lauded Suryakumar Yadav's leadership qualities, highlighting how his willingness to adjust for the greater good has brought out the best in his teammates. Steyn believes that Yadav's "secure and welcoming" captaincy has helped foster an environment where players feel backed and are willing to adapt to match situations.

India's head coach Gautam Gambhir has emphasized the importance of flexibility and dynamism in the team's approach, leading to experimental changes in the batting lineup. Yadav himself has shuffled between the No.3 and No.4 positions in recent matches, with the most recent instance being in the opening T20I against South Africa, where he came in at one down. "When you have the backing of your team and feel comfortable in your environment, you can have open conversations with your players," Steyn said. "A captain who's secure, welcoming, and willing to adjust for the greater good—someone who focuses on what's best for the individual and the team—brings out the best in his players." Steyn also emphasized the importance of a captain who can make tough calls, like moving a player down the order, knowing the team will support him due to past backing. "That's a fantastic skill and a great leadership quality," Steyn added. Yadav's leadership style, focused on team-first thinking and adaptability, has resonated with the Indian squad, contributing to their cohesive performances on the field. This approach has been integral in fostering a high-performing, flexible team dynamic under his captaincy.

FIFA President Accused of Ethics Breach over Trump's FIFA Peace Prize

LONDON

Gianni Infantino, the president of FIFA, is facing allegations of breaching the organization's ethics regulations after a controversial incident during last week's 2026 World Cup draw. A complaint was filed with FIFA's Ethics Committee by the non-profit group FairSquare, citing concerns over Infantino's lack of impartiality and the political nature of the event.

At the center of the complaint is Infantino's lavish praise of U.S. President Donald Trump, who was honored with FIFA's newly introduced Peace Prize. Infantino presented Trump with a gold trophy, gold medal, and a certificate during the ceremony held at Washington, D.C.'s Kennedy Center. FIFA's Peace Prize is intended to recognize individuals who have made extraordinary contributions toward peace, and a video played during the event highlighted Trump's diplomatic efforts, including his role in brokering ceasefires and fostering diplomatic engagements.

FairSquare, a group focused on accountability in sports, claims that Infantino's actions violate FIFA's longstanding policy of neutrality in political matters. The group highlighted FIFA's rules, which mandate impartiality in dealings with government institutions and pointed to Infantino's public lobbying earlier this year for Trump to receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

PUDUCHERRY

An under-19 cricket coach in Puducherry, S. Venkataraman, was brutally assaulted at the Cricket Association of Puducherry (CAP) grounds by three local cricketers over their non-selection for the ongoing Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy. The accused—identified as Karthikayan, Arvindraj, and Santosh Kumaran—reportedly confronted the coach over their exclusion from the tournament squad.
